WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

who has already shown his ability to present a fresh, unhackneyed, realistic living picture of a public man, will next contribute to McClure's the story of President Roosevelt and his work. It will be one of the important magazine articles of the year. With such a subject, Mr. White has every opportunity for his vigorous and brilliant power of portraiture.

MRS. EDDY AND THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MOVEMENT

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE

RAY STANNARD BAKER

"whose mind is a crystal through which men see truth," has brought home to the whole United States the story of railway ownership—the great problem which lies at the heart of modern commercial oppression. His work will have a new significance in 1907, when the railroad question may be a political issue.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE

BURTON J. HENDRICK

"The only articles out of the mass of stuff written about Life Insurance which have made the subject plain and interesting," writes a subscriber, of the McClure series of articles by Burton J. Hendrick. This writer, who combines the historical faculty with an interesting style, will continue his studies of American life for McClure's of 1907.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE

ELLEN TERRY

the great English actress, will tell in McClure's the story of her stage career—nearly fifty years with the men and women who made the modern English drama. Aside from its significance as a history of our drama, it gives us intimate glimpses of the great actors and actresses of our times, showing the lovable and fascinating side of these men and women of genius.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE

SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

one of the greatest reporters in the world, and a writer of vivid, realistic fiction, whose articles in McClure's on public health have brought the science of sanitation to the attention of the American people, will contribute to McClure's a striking series of articles on a subject new to American magazines.

ONE of the most important, certainly the most interesting, contributions to McClure's in 1907 will be the life of Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, head of the Christian Science Church. She is the richest woman in the United States who got her money by her own efforts; the most powerful American woman by all odds, easily the most famous; yet no one has before ever written the true story of her life. She is 85 years old, has been three times married; at 55 she was unknown and a dependent, and yet she has built up a fortune which must be more than $3,000,000. As a church head she approaches nearest to absolute authority of any leader of the Western world.

GEORGE KENNAN

the great traveler, explorer and sociologist, has been added to McClure's staff. Everyone remembers Mr. Kennan's remarkable series on Siberia and Russia's terrible exile system. He has the seeing eye and the ability to describe what he sees. He will present in McClure's the results of his investigations of social conditions of timely importance.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE

GEORGE KIBBE TURNER

though best known to readers of McClure's as a writer of fiction, is a journalist of ability with a clear insight into American affairs. He has begun his new work for McClure's with a remarkable study of civic organization, called "Galveston: A Business Corporation"—one of the real McClure kind.

HARVEY O'HIGGINS

No writer has ever portrayed the Irish-American with such insight and truth as Harvey O'Higgins. His stories of this brave, witty, militant race, fighting for a place in the New World, have been a feature of McClure's for the past four years. He will continue in 1907 his studies of "the bravest people in the world."
